

A contemplative designer with a stellar reputation for creating unique interiors throughout Toronto and internationally, Ariel Muller cares most about satisfying his clients' lifestyle needs and desires. With strict adherence to proven architectural principles, he works in all genres designing exquisite environments that combine custom fabrications using interesting woods and metals, luxurious textiles, fine appointments, and personal art collections. Ariel's eye for melding classic elements with modern accents is masterful, while his sensitivity to function, comfort and integrating the most current technologies is apparent the moment one enters his meticulously designed spaces.

Ariel Muller

T O R O N T O

Above: Strong yet inviting, the combination of artfully moulded stone, forged metal ironwork, copper fixtures and earthen-hued velvet drapery exudes serene, natural elegance.

Right: An inviting rustic ambience is reflected throughout the home; a custom console with framed oversized mirror enhances the hallway and opens up the space.

Facing Page Top: A great room's warmth defies its impressive scale. Soaring ceilings and expansive views mesh with welcoming seating areas and rich wood tones for the ultimate log home experience combining comfort and luxury.

Facing Page Bottom: Nestled under the mezzanine and anchoring an expansive great room, the double island kitchen with bespoke cabinetry and granite elements deftly conceals appliances, thus preserving function without sacrificing form.

Previous Page: We designed a handcrafted bubinga wood dining table with comfortable espresso leather and chenille chairs to meld with chocolate brown reclaimed elm floors. The handsome presentation of rustic grandeur is reminiscent of a stately lodge. Photographs by John Trigiani

“Formality and practicality can coexist.”

—Ariel Muller

Above: We created a concert of classical details to draw one in. A sophisticated rosewood Steinway piano is complemented by refined accents, including antique glass drapery finials, luxuriously tactile fabrics and an exquisite Chihuly glass centerpiece.

Facing Page Top: Enveloped by tufted silk chairs and paneled walls, the grand sapele pommele wood table mirrors an oval-domed classical ceiling creating an elegant dining atmosphere.

Facing Page Bottom: The vaulted great room uses veiled technology, graceful chandeliers and generous seating to provide a versatile gathering space. Its classical lines and family-friendly appointments combine traditional good looks with livability. Photographs by David Whittaker

“The greatest pleasure is working with people and bringing out their tastes, preferences and desires.”

— Ariel Muller

Top: From the curvilinear anigre wood bar to the modern stools, fluid lines mimic the captivating saltwater aquarium to provide a casual-chic food and wine setting.

Photograph by John Trigiani

Center: Quiet moments call for a natural stone fireplace with organic wood mantel complemented by custom chairs and an artisan burlwood and bronze coffee table.

Photograph by John Trigiani

Bottom: Creating drama in a modern space, an uplit onyx counter is supported by its figured anigre wood vanity with a custom bronze vessel.

Photograph by David Whittaker

Facing Page Top: Seamlessly merging form and function, the media room’s classic contemporary aesthetic creates a cocooning effect through natural elements and carefully concealed technology.

Photograph by David Whittaker

Facing Page Bottom: Surrounded by hand-chiseled stone walls, the infinity tub’s continuously cascading water cultivates an air of tranquility in the master ensuite retreat.

Photograph by John Trigiani

